Richmond's Call.

It is important for the city of Richmond to have a good Mayor, but it is more important for it to have a legislative body composed of its best representative citizens. All the vital affairs of a city are in the hands of the Council and Board. of Aldermen. Those two bodies make the rules and regulations of city government, appropriate the revenues, and practically manage all the business affairs of the city. They are to the city government what a board of directors is to a private corporation. It is, therefore, of supreme importance to the whole community that the directors of this municipal corporation shall be men of intelligense, men of discretion, men of integrity, men of undoubted loyalty to Richmond, men who thoroughly understand and appreciate the fact and govern themselves accordingly, that a public office is a public trust. As well talk of putting ignorant men, dishonest men, incompetent men, or unfaithful men in the directory of a bank, a manufacturing corporation, or a railway corporation, and to expect such institutions to succeed, as to put such men in charge of our municipal afhirs and expect honest and efficient covernment.

We believe that the great majority of the voters of Richmond stand ready to elect to the Council and Board of Al- best investment that can be made of it. the best representative men to be found, if such men will only agree to Therefore, we make an appeal on behalf of the voters, on behalf of the entire community, that in this crisis in the city's affairs every citizen will be n a willing frame of mind and agree, if called upon, to serve in one branch other in the City Council, If a foreign force were marching against our beloved city, every patriotic citizen would shoulder his gun and go out in Richhang back would be denounced as a traiter, and he could never again hole head in the community. We shall not go into heroics, but the fact is that Richmond is in distress, and she is calling upon her loyal sons to come to such son to announce himself as candidate, but she does ask, and ask in all that every such son shall indicate his willingness to serve if called upon.

to show his colors and to give evidence of his loyalty and his devotion to his city. It is his day of grace, and when the day of grace is past it can never be recalled. There are men of Richmond who will now, have the opportunity to perform a public service and to endear themselves forever to their fellow-citicity will get along, but hereafter will ring in the ears of all who refuse to respond to Richmond's call the sad refrain:

"The tender grace of a day that is dead Will never come back to me.'

______ Constitutional Points.

The Northampton Times apologizes for coming into the discussion between the Norfolk Landmark, the Lynchburg News and the Times-Dispatch on the constitutionality of the viva voce voting in primary election. We assure our contemporary that there is no intrusion; we are glad to have its views. The Times says that its conception of the nature of the primary is that it is nothing higher nor greater than a party method of determining upon a party choice, and that the object of that choice, when made, is a nomince and nothing more. "That his election is binding nowhere outside the ranks of the party whose nominee he is." proceeds our contemporary, "is self-evi-dent, for as many candidates of other parties may oppose his 'election as see fit, and, in any event the regular 'election by the people' at large under the Constitution must follow this we are not the victim of error, it produce, follows, we think, with logical certainty that the constitutional provision as to how 'elections by the people' shall be conducted can have no sort of appli-cability to party primaries, legalized or otherwise, unless there should be a statutory provision for the granting of a certificate of election to the successful candidate when one party only makes a given nomination. Calling it an election does not bring it within the perview of our general election laws, whether furdamental or statutory; it is not and given a voice therein, A selection or nomination is the highest plane to which the us to us little short of child's play to ask the Supreme Court of Appeals to to the interests of the community. turn aside from the more weighty functions of its high office to umpire what be returned, not only by big majorities

_____ The Times Dispatch. is to all practical purposes a mere newspaper scrap."

'The 'Times-Dispatch has said from the first that in all probability the view which the Lynchburg News and the Northampton Times hold with reference to this subject are correct. At the same time a legalized primary election is an election according to law, and there is certainly ground for raising the point, that under the Constitution of Virginia any sort of election according to law must be by ballot. Therefore, we have suggested that the question be tested in the courts. But that is only one phase of the case which The Times-Disputch would test. There is a general primary election law, which provides that all regulations of law applying to regular elections shall apply also to primary elections, and what we should like for the Fourte to decide is whether or not such a general law can be enforced. If so, it is all the primary law that we need and will give the sanction and protection of law to any party primary that may Moreover, there is doubt as to whether or not the expenses of primary elec-, tions under this statute shall be defraved by the government.

All these questions are in doubt, and it s to test them all that The Times-Dispatch has suggested a test case which shall be finally passed upon by the Court of Appeals.

The Value of Education.

Americans have been called a nation of traders. They are a strictly business people and lay great stress on business accomplishments. From time to time statistics are printed showing the condition of our foreign and domestic trade, showing railroad earnings and the output of factories, showing the value of real estate and the like, all for the purpose of ascertaining whether or not our wealth is increasing. If our trade shows progress, if bank clearings, railroad, earnings and factory earnings show an inerense, there is an expression of gratification on the part of financiers, and we all felicitate ourselves upon the fact that the wealth of the country is growing. But the wealth of the country is not n banks and fac ries and railroads and houses and lands. The wealth of the United States is in its people. The best way, therefore, to increase the value of our lands and houses, to increase the earnings of our banks, our railroads and our factories, is to increase the capacity of the people; and the way to increase n man's capacity is to educate him. If by education the earning power of a man can be increased from $1 a day to $2, $3, $4 and $10 a day, the amount of money expended in educating that man is the

As an illustration of this principle some remarkable figures are given in the second edition of "Who's Who in America?" With a view to determining what effect education of the various grades has had on success in life, effort was made by the publishers to ascertain the school training of each of the men and women mentioned under the head "of more than iceal note" and 7,852 on the United States list were thus classified. According to latest estimates there are in the United States 40,782,007 persons over twenty-one years of age, and these are divided educationally about as follows:

Class 1-Without school training., 4,682,498

Class 1—Without school training 4,085,768
Class 2—With only common school training 23,862,951
Class 3—With common and high school training 2,165,357
Class 4—With college or higher education added 1,071,201
Now, the question is, how many of the eight thousand distinguished citizens of the United States on the Who's Who list came from each of these classes

The 4.682.498 of class 1 furnished ..... 31

These figures are given by Professor W. W. Smith and he draws the following conclusions:

1st. That an uneducated child has chance in 150,000 of attaining distinction as a factor in the progress of the age. 2d. That a common school education will increase his chances nearly four

3d. That a high school training will increase the chances of the common school boy twenty-three times, giving him eighty-seven times the chance of the uncducated.

4th. That a college education increases the chance of the high school boy nine times, giving him two hundred and nine-teen times the chance of the common school boy, and more than 800 times the chance of the untrained.

It is a surprising fact, Dr. Smtlh adds, that of the 7,852 notables thus gathered 4.810 proved to be full graduates of col-The old idea was that when a man was educated he was not expected to work, except to do "brain work." But in these days a man is educated in order that he may work, and that he may work more successfully. Even manual labor is best when it is done by the educated man. We are spending a great deal of money for educational purposes, but we are not spending as much as we ought to spend In this article no mention has been made of the moral value of education but simply of its material value, and, speaking from that point of view, it is plain from the figures above that the money expended in educating the people whether there be one candidate comes back four-fold, an hundred fold, in or a dozen for the same office. If in increasing the capacity of the people to

City Council.

The matter of the mayoralty election is receiving great attention, and deserves it but it should not be allowed to overzens to use their best judgment in the dermer and Common Council.

The faithful representatives should receive hearty and energetic support. They should be made to know that their services are appreciated. Where they are hesitating they should be urged to run again, and proof ought to be given that the Richmond public is not ungrateful to those who diligently perform their duties and who give their first thought always themselves on this subject. As Richmond grows in population and importance as a city, it becomes more and more important to send good, com petent, courageous men to the Council. There are men of that description there Others can be got if convince that their services are urgently desired by their fellow-citizens. So we say, give heed to the election of members of the two branches of the Council. ing could be further from the fact than that the use of gas in being supplanted by the use of electricity. "While most of the electric companies have at one time or another been either in the hands of receivers or reorganizers, fallures in the gas manufacturing business are practically unheard of."

The use of gas certainly is growing in Richmond, and the demand for a better suppy has compelled the Council to provide for the construction of an up-town gas holder. At present the "pressure" is very unequal and ill-distributed in certain localities.

ratives in the Carolinas have abandoned that work and gone back to the farms, where, they believe, the raising of cotton at the present high prices will pay them better. The sale of horses and inules and agricultural implements in those States has been larger than in years before, and it is certain that the increased acreage will be large.

High price cotton is a fine thing for the South, and, though it can hardly be expected that the present rate will become permanent, there is fair reason to believe that it will range much higher than it did during some years past.
